

February 22, 2016

Allysta Pharmaceuticals, Inc. to present at the National Investment Banking Association Conference

Allysta Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (Allysta) today announced that Henry Hsu, M.D., the company's chief executive officer, will present at the National Investment Banking Association (NIBA) Conference on February 28, 2017, in New York City.

About NIBA

Since 1982, NIBA has been a not-for-profit association for national, regional and independent broker dealers, investment banking firms, investment advisors, and related capital market service providers. Since its inception, years NIBA members have completed thousands of deals that have raised over $12 billion dollars for emerging growth companies. The NIBA Membership represents over 60+ services centered around micro-cap and small-cap companies.

About Allysta

Allysta is a private company developing breakthrough therapies with a focus in eye diseases. The company is advancing next-generation treatments for two major areas in ophthalmology: dry eye disease and glaucoma. Allysta's lead candidates are in late preclinical stage supported by compelling science and pharmacology.